Case No. 2:16-CV-00075-DN

District Judge David Nuffer

This case concerns the surveillance practices of a car dealership in Utah. The plaintiffs are a group of former employees and their family members and customers of the dealership who allege they were subjected to undisclosed, invasive audio surveillance at the dealership. Plaintiffs' original complaint filed in Utah State court on November 27, 2015¹ was removed to this court on January 29, 2016.²

The Amended Complaint³ filed by plaintiffs Robert West, Samara West, Lydia Green, Todd Palmer, Traci Palmer, Gloyd Green, Jake West, Samuel Dalsasso, Craig West, Dhyani

1. violations of the Federal Wiretap Act and the Utah Interception of Communications Act;
2. intrusion upon seclusion;
3. violation of the Utah Payment of Wages Act, conversion, and wrongful termination in violation of public policy; and
4. violation of the Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act.

Defendants C.J. Prestman Company, Jason Olsen, Cory Olsen, Shaun Olsen, (collectively “Prestman Auto”), and Dave White (together with Prestman Auto, “Defendants”) filed a Motion to Dismiss the Amended Complaint⁴ (the “Motion to Dismiss”). Plaintiffs opposed⁵ the Motion to Dismiss, arguing that they had alleged sufficient facts under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 8 and 12.⁶ Because Plaintiffs have alleged sufficient facts to state some but not all of their claims, and because some claims are without a legal basis, the Motion to Dismiss is GRANTED as to Counts III and IV, and DENIED as to Counts I and II.

Provoked by the Motion to Dismiss, Plaintiffs filed a Motion for Leave to File a Second Amended Complaint (“Motion to Amend”).⁷ Defendants opposed⁸ the Motion to Amend, arguing prejudice from “Plaintiffs’ undue delay, bad faith, dilatory motive, and the overall futility of the amendments.”⁹ Defendants will not be prejudiced by a second amended complaint. MOTION TO DISMISS

Rule 8(a)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure requires a complaint to provide “a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.”¹⁰ Rule 12(b)(6) allows a court to dismiss a case for “failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted” at any point.¹¹ To survive a motion to dismiss, a complaint must state “sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.”¹² The facts as alleged will be accepted as true for the purposes of evaluating the sufficiency of the complaint. Legal conclusions in the complaint need not be accepted as true.¹³ Whether a complaint states a plausible claim for relief is a “context-specific” question that requires a court to “draw on its judicial experience and common sense”¹⁴ and determine if the pleading’s content “allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable.”¹⁵ The standard does not require “detailed factual allegations,” though a “formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do.”¹⁶ Under “the compromise enacted by Rule 8’s notice pleading . . . [t]echnical fact pleading is not required, but the complaint must still provide enough factual allegations for a court to infer potential victory.”¹⁷

Background

West Parties: Plaintiff Robert West was an at-will employee of Prestman Auto from April 2012 to May 2012.¹⁸ In June 2012, West entered a written employment contract with Prestman Auto effective through August 2013.¹⁹ Plaintiffs Samara West, Craig West, Jake West, Samuel Dalsasso,²⁰ and Ashley West (the “West Family”) are family members of Robert West.²¹

Palmer Parties: Plaintiff Todd Palmer was a salesman at Prestman Auto from at least April 2013 to June 2014.²² Plaintiff Traci Palmer is Todd Palmer’s wife.²³

Other Parties: Plaintiffs Lydia Green and Gloyd Green were Prestman Auto's customers.²⁴ The remaining Plaintiffs, Dhyani Shaw, Bob Haverstock, and Liliana Haverstock, are either family of Robert West or Todd Palmer or customers of Prestman Auto.²⁵

Plaintiffs allege that Prestman Auto used a complex audio surveillance system to systematically and intentionally intercept and record Plaintiffs' ²⁶ live oral conversations for 24 hours a day over the time period from April 2013 through September 2015 or later.²⁷ Plaintiffs assert Prestman Auto did not provide formal or adequate notice of the audio surveillance and that Plaintiffs did not have knowledge of, or consent to the audio surveillance during this period.²⁸ Plaintiffs allege Defendant Dave White joined in Prestman Auto's surveillance no later than August 2013²⁹ and that Defendants continued to record and monitor audio at Prestman Auto until September 2015.³⁰

Timeframe of Interceptions of West Conversations: Robert West and Todd Palmer allege that thousands of their personal conversations were recorded by Prestman Auto.³¹ The West Family had private conversations with Robert West which were surveilled between April and August of 2013,³² when Robert West was fired.³³ Plaintiffs Dhyani Shaw, Bob Haverstock and Liliana Haverstock did not have any communications intercepted after August 2013.

Timeframe of Interceptions of Palmer Conversations: The audio surveillance continued as to Todd Palmer and his wife, until Todd Palmer was fired from Prestman Auto in June 2014.³⁴ Todd Palmer alleges he was fired because he witnessed Defendants listening in on private conversations and warned them that it was illegal.³⁵

In addition to surveilling Todd Palmer's conversations, Defendants allegedly withheld $700 from Todd Palmer's paycheck to pay for a customer's damaged bumper.³⁶

Green Allegations: In the winter of 2013, Green went to Prestman Auto to purchase a car and had her private phone conversations with Robert West and her father, plaintiff Gloyd Green, intercepted by Defendants.³⁷ These private conversations revealed Green's bargaining and negotiation strategies, which allowed Defendants to gain an unfair bargaining advantage over Green.³⁸

Damage Allegations: As a result of this secret audio surveillance, Plaintiffs contend they have been injured due to the "stress and anxiety of knowing their personal privacy was violated in such a continuous and wanton way."³⁹ surveillance.⁴¹ No other allegations in the Amended Complaint pertain to Autozinc.com.

Autozinc.com has not alleged any facts on which to base a claim against Defendants. Because Autozinc.com has not satisfied Rule 8's notice pleading requirement,⁴² the Motion to Dismiss is GRANTED as to all claims asserted on behalf of plaintiff Autozinc.com, subject to more specific pleading in the second amended complaint.

Plaintiffs sufficiently pleaded facts for State and Federal wiretap claims.

The Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 ("Federal Wiretap Act")⁴³ and the Utah Interception of Communications Act⁴⁴ (collectively "Wiretap Acts") prohibit any person, including corporations⁴⁵ from intercepting, using, or disclosing the contents of any oral communication⁴⁶ uttered by a person. The Wiretap Acts allow for a civil cause of action and have a two-year statutes of limitation barring suits brought more than two years "after the date upon which the claimant first has a reasonable opportunity to discover the violation."⁴⁷

Oral communication is defined by the Wiretap Acts as "any oral communication uttered by a person exhibiting an expectation that such communication is not subject to interception under circumstances justifying such expectation[.]"⁴⁸ As recognized by the Tenth Circuit, the legislative history of the Federal Wiretap Act reveals that "Congress intended this definition to parallel the 'reasonable expectation of privacy test' articulated by the Supreme Court in Katz v.

As a threshold matter, Defendants argue⁵¹ that Plaintiffs’ claims are barred because they were brought more than two years after they had a reasonable opportunity to discover the audio surveillance in April 2013. Defendants argue that they installed a video surveillance system in April 2013 which Plaintiffs knew about, and thus reasonably should have known about the audio surveillance system.⁵² If Plaintiffs knew about the audio surveillance in April 2013, such knowledge would have triggered the Wiretap Acts’ two-year statutes of limitations, making Plaintiffs’ claims untimely because the original complaint was filed on November 27, 2015.⁵³

This argument requires inferences in the Defendants’ favor, which is inappropriate on the motion to dismiss.⁵⁴ “A statute of limitations defense ‘may be appropriately resolved on a [Rule] 12(b) motion when the dates given in the complaint make clear that the right sued upon has been extinguished.’”⁵⁵ Plaintiffs alleged in the Amended Complaint that they did not know about Defendants’ audio surveillance capabilities.⁵⁶ This allegation, coupled with the allegation that the Plaintiffs filed their claims within two years of discovering the audio surveillance,⁵⁷ is enough to survive the motion to dismiss.

The Wiretap Acts require Plaintiffs to have had “an actual, subjective expectation of privacy . . . [that] society would objectively consider reasonable.”⁵⁸ For purposes of this Motion to Dismiss, accepting Plaintiffs’ allegation that they believed they had a legitimate expectation of privacy in their conversations as true,⁵⁹ the first element is satisfied. Whether society might consider this expectation to be reasonable is a question of fact that is better answered at the summary judgment stage or later.

Likewise, Defendants’ argument that Plaintiffs impliedly consented to the audio surveillance is a fact question which cannot now be resolved. Plaintiffs have alleged consistently, if not plainly, that they did not know about the audio surveillance.⁶⁰ Arguments or evidence to the contrary are outside of the pleadings and may not be resolved on a Rule 12(b)(6) motion.

Therefore, because Plaintiffs have alleged a plausible claim for violations of the Wiretap Acts, Defendants’ Motion to Dismiss is DENIED as to Count One.

Plaintiffs sufficiently pleaded a claim for intrusion upon seclusion

A claim for intrusion upon seclusion in Utah requires Plaintiffs to sufficiently plead two elements: (1) they have suffered “an intentional substantial intrusion” on their privacy, and (2) the intrusion would be “highly offensive” to a reasonable person.⁶¹

⁶¹ Stien v. Marriott Ownership Resorts, Inc., 944 P.2d 374, 379 (Utah Ct. App. 1997).

Utah courts have determined that electronic eavesdropping may support a claim of intrusion upon seclusion.⁶² Plaintiffs allege an intrusion into their privacy through live audio surveillance.⁶³ The fact that the Wiretap Acts criminalize the interception, use and disclosure of oral communications without consent⁶⁴ lends credibility to the argument that wiretapping is offensive to the reasonable person. Additionally, taking the allegations in the Amended Complaint as true, Defendants intercepted Plaintiffs' conversations for various improper purposes and without Plaintiffs' consent.⁶⁵

Plaintiffs' have sufficiently pleaded wiretap allegations at this stage to sustain a claim of intrusion upon seclusion. Defendants have not shown failure to state a claim under Rule 12(b)(6). Accordingly, Defendants' Motion to Dismiss is DENIED as to Count Two.

Plaintiffs do not state claims for pay violations, conversion, and wrongful discharge.

Todd Palmer alleges that Defendants withheld $700 from his paycheck in violation of the Utah Payment of Wages Act ("UPWA") and an act of conversion. Palmer also alleges he was wrongfully discharged in violation of public policy.

UPWA: The UPWA prohibits an employer from withholding or diverting any of an employee's wages.⁶⁶ However, Utah law does not provide a private right of action under the UPWA.⁶⁷ Though Palmer claims that withholding $700 was impermissible under the UPWA, he does not provide any allegations or arguments that would support a private action. Therefore, Todd Palmer's UPWA claim is DISMISSED.

Conversion: "A conversion is an act of willful interference with a chattel, done without lawful justification by which the person entitled thereto is deprived of its use and possession."⁶⁸ Money may only be considered a chattel under certain circumstances, such as when the party charged wrongfully received it or when funds are misappropriated for a definite application.⁶⁹

Utah courts have not expressly addressed whether unpaid wages constitute a chattel for purposes of a conversion claim. However, in In re Wal-Mart Wage & Hour Employee Practices Litigation,⁷⁰ a federal district court determined that Utah would not recognize a conversion claim where a nationwide retailer allegedly failed to pay its hourly employees for all time worked. The court concluded that "Utah would not recognize a conversion claim in these circumstances because unpaid wages constitute money not subject to conversion under Utah law unless Defendants wrongfully received the money."⁷¹

Similarly, Todd Palmer has not alleged that he gave money to Defendants which Defendants then converted to their own use, or that Defendants wrongfully received the $700. The allegations of wrongful withholding in the Amended Complaint do not satisfy the elements of conversion because Palmer did not entrust the money to Defendants for a specific purpose, and Defendants are not using the money for their own, unauthorized purposes. The facts may support a claim for breach of contract, but not conversion. Todd Palmer's conversion claim is DISMISSED.

Wrongful discharge: In order to assert liability for wrongful discharge in violation of public policy in Utah, a plaintiff must show “[1] that his employer terminated him; [2] that a clear and substantial public policy existed; [3] that the employee's conduct brought the policy into play; and [4] that the discharge and the conduct bringing the policy into play are causally connected.”⁷² A “clear” public policy is one that is “plainly defined by legislative enactments, constitutional standards, or judicial decisions [and] . . . is far narrower than what may typically be characterized as ‘public policy.’”⁷³

Todd Palmer claims he was terminated because he protested Defendants’ audio surveillance and he “would not wink at their illegal behavior.”⁷⁴ Yet, Plaintiffs do not argue that any public policy is implicated by Defendants’ actions. The Amended Complaint does not state which public policy is alleged to have been violated. For these reasons, Todd Palmer’s claim for wrongful discharge is DISMISSED.

In sum, Defendants’ Motion to Dismiss as to all of Count III is GRANTED. Plaintiffs did not address the deficiencies in these three claims in their Opposition to the Motion to Dismiss or in their Motion to Amend, thus failing to overcome Defendants’ argument that amendment would be futile. The claims in Count III must be excluded from Plaintiffs’ second amended complaint.

Plaintiffs have not sufficiently pleaded a claim under the Utah Consumer Sales Practices Act (“UCSPA”).

Plaintiff Lydia Green alleges that Defendants “gained an unfair bargaining advantage” over her by eavesdropping on her private conversations, to learn her negotiation strategy, in violation of the UCSPA.⁷⁵ The UCSPA “protect[s] consumers from suppliers who commit . . . unconscionable sales practices.”⁷⁶ Additionally, the “unconscionability of an act or practice is a question of law for the court.”⁷⁷

The Utah Supreme Court has not specifically determined whether the UCSPA governs claims against car dealerships for eavesdropping on conversations to determine customer negotiation strategies. However, the Court has ruled that UCSPA claims are barred when the “complained-of conduct [is] governed by other, more specific law.”⁷⁸ In Carlie v. Morgan, the Utah Supreme Court determined that the Utah Fit Premises Act, a more specific statute, provided a remedy for the conduct plaintiffs complained about, and held that its “long-standing rule of statutory construction that ‘[s]pecific statutes control over more general ones, . . . [and the] plaintiffs may not resort to the UCSPA under the facts alleged.”⁷⁹

And after the Utah Supreme Court’s decision in Carlie, courts have barred UCSPA claims when more specific statutes apply to the wrongful conduct.⁸⁰ The wrongful complained-of conduct in this case is that Defendants intentionally recorded Lydia Green’s conversations without her knowledge.⁸¹ This conduct falls squarely within the Wiretap Acts.⁸² Thus, because

MOTION TO AMEND

After amending once as a matter of course,⁸⁴ a party may only amend its complaint “with the opposing party’s written consent or the court’s leave,” and “[t]he court should freely give leave when justice so requires.”⁸⁵ “In the absence of any apparent or declared reason—such as undue delay, bad faith or dilatory motive on the part of the movant . . . undue prejudice to the opposing party . . . futility of amendment, etc.—the leave sought should, as the rules require, be freely given.”⁸⁶ Further, “a district court typically may not look outside the four corners of the amended complaint [and] the plaintiff cannot be bound by allegations in the superseded complaint[s].”⁸⁷ Indeed, amended pleadings supersede the original pleadings, even when the original pleadings contained “any confession . . . on which the district court could rely[.]”⁸⁸ “Courts typically find prejudice only when the amendment unfairly affects the defendants in terms of preparing their defense to the amendment.”⁸⁹
